

A complex network diagram. The central part features a dense, overlapping cluster of red and blue circular nodes. From this central hub, numerous gray arrows radiate outwards, pointing towards a sparse outer ring composed of more red and blue circular nodes. Two green stars are positioned within the central cluster, near the top. The overall structure suggests a flow or relationship from a central, highly interconnected core to a more dispersed periphery.